

"Gain all you can; save all you can; give all you can."

In the 18th century, John Wesley coined this motto in his sermon, "The Use of Money." Join us as we explore the concept of gaining and saving all we can in order to live more generously.

"Gain all you can; save all you can; give all you can."

In the 18th century, John Wesley coined this motto in his sermon, "The Use of Money." Join us as we explore the concept of gaining and saving all we can in order to live more generously.